

HOVERING BETWEEN LIFE AND DEATH

Little Hope Felt for Recovery of Either of Monday Night's Duelists.

BRIGHAM STREET BEAT SHADOWED BY HOODOO

Glaser Third Man to Be Shot Off Beat Within Period of Year.

Sinister gradually nearer to death, two men, Special Officer Emil Glaser and Pietro Macarilli, are lying almost lifeless at St. Mark's hospital, the result of the pistol duel in front of the Olympia saloon at 525 West Second, south street, Tuesday morning at 2:30 o'clock.

Those who are members of the police department of Salt Lake City are watching the outcome of the duel with interest, wondering and asking each other in the meantime whether the hoodoo will leave the Brigham street beat. And this for the following reasons:

The First Victim.
One year ago today, Jack Hempel, a brother of Lieutenant Hempel, and a night special officer, whose beat was along the property on Brigham street, was shot off his beat in the four saloon at Commercial street and Commercial alley, and killed. This shooting, unlike the others, was accidental and came about when Hempel and the bartender in the saloon were examining a gun. The bartender had held of the gun and was standing behind him. Hempel, in joking with him, had taken the gun and attempted to take the gun. In the resulting struggle for possession the weapon was shot and which resulted in the death of the officer.

On the evening of October 5 last, Special Officer C. E. Glaser, who was appointed after the death of Hempel, and who took up the same beat, was ordered by E. E. Driskell, directly opposite the Brigham street entrance, at Commercial street, past 9 o'clock. He had left the police station a few minutes prior to that time in search of two men who had held up and robbed Knowlton Nebecker a few minutes before. He was away from his beat at the time that the shooting occurred. The excitement incident to the murder had quieted down, then in police circles began to ask in which saloon would be the next to come under the hoodoo.

Laughed at Fears.

When Emil Glaser was appointed to fill the place of Hempel, he was expected to laugh away the fears of those who warned him to be careful. He was told that he was in the line of duty as long as he walked the Brigham street beat he was safe. Glaser, however, was wondering at the present time if he will still escape the hoodoo.

Very little is known of the relatives of Glaser except that he has a brother in San Antonio, Tex., a Dr. Glaser, who has been notified of the shooting. At the hospital, where he is lying, it is said that the chances for the recovery of Glaser and the Italian were very slight.

EUGENE CULLY LUCKY IF LETTER PROVES TRUE

Chief of Police Barlow received the following letter Tuesday afternoon from Seattle, Wash., and he is wondering what the emotions of Eugene Cully will be in case he should see the letter, as he may, in The Tribune.

"Chief of Police of Salt Lake City, Dear Sir:—Would you kindly find out if there is a man by the name of Eugene Cully, who is about the age of 34 or 35, in your city. His mother is dead and has left him a large fortune. I was his mother's best friend, and am very anxious to find him. He was last heard of in Salt Lake City about six years ago, and if you should find him please let me know at once for I have the full particulars about how to get the money. My address is Mrs. C. G. BOOTH WANTS TO TAKE SHARP CASE HIGHER

United States District Attorney Booth is quoted as an authority for the statement that he will ask Attorney-General Wickersham to consider a petition for writ of certiorari in the now famous Sharp coal case, the title being the United States against the Union Pacific railroad.

In the court here Judge Marshall found the defendant guilty of conspiracy and was recently reversed by Judge Sanborn of the United States court of appeals, but Mr. Booth insists that the reversal was ruled without the consideration of at least three points in the case.

YOUTH GETS JUDGMENT FOR INJURIES RECEIVED

Harold Cannon, through his guardian, Angus M. Cannon, secured judgment in the district court Tuesday for $299.50 for injuries received as a result of negligence on the part of the Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone company.

The young man was in the employ of the company as cable splicer August 23, 1909, when he was sent up a pole on Fifth East between Washington and Second South to repair the line. The electric light company's heavily charged wires ran on the same pole, and in some manner young Cannon's foot was severely burned.

HOLD UP STREET CAR AND ESCAPE

"Elevate Those Lunch Grabbers." Is Coarse Command of Highwaymen.

ONE HOLDS GUN ON CREW WHILE OTHER SEARCHES

Daring Robbery Nets Rough Robbers the Small Sum of $17.15.

"Just elevate those lunch grabbers of yours, and hurry up with them!" was the rather coarse command heard by Conductor E. E. Miller and Motor-man Ben Hendrickson at the end of the Wadsworth car line Tuesday night at 9 o'clock, as two highwaymen boarded their car. Conductor Miller was robbed of $14.35 of the company's money and $2.80 of his own money. The highwaymen escaped.

All the passengers had left the car and the conductor and motor-man were seated inside, with both doors closed, waiting for the time to come to start back. In the center of the car, in the middle of their discussion regarding the last trip they had made, the rear door opened and a man wearing a mask and holding a gun stepped into the car. He was followed by his partner, who was masked and did the searching while the shorter of the two held the gun on the crew.

The masked man was dressed in light clothing and had a thin face and wore a silk handkerchief. He stood about five feet, eight inches in height, and weighed about 145 pounds. The taller man also wore light clothing, and both wore black slouch hats. As soon as the highwaymen left the car the crew telephoned to Sheriff Sharp, who dispatched deputies to the scene. Deputy sheriffs were scattered all the way from Fifteenth South street to South Lake City. The police were also notified, and all of the patrolmen were given descriptions of the highwaymen.

A private safe may be rented in the fire and burglar-proof vaults of the Salt Lake Security and Trust company, 32 up Main street, $2.00 per year.

WILLIAMS'S ASSAULT TAKEN INTO CUSTODY

Ed Franklin, a negro, was arrested by Patrolman Carlsberg and Detective Howell Tuesday afternoon, in what is known as Pat's saloon on Commercial street. Franklin is accused of assaulting with a deadly weapon Charles Williams, another negro, early Tuesday morning.

The row started between the men when Franklin approached Williams in the Japanese room on Commercial street and asked him to loan him a large fortune. Williams said that he had twenty cents, whereupon Franklin asked for half of it. Williams refused the request, and Franklin drew his razor and slashed Williams in the throat and in the right arm, causing serious wounds.

The emergency hospital, where his wounds were attended by Dr. Steele. He left the hospital early Wednesday morning, and was taken to the police, who began a search for Franklin.

GROWING POPULARITY OF THE Y. W. C. A.

Is Attested in Letter Recently Received by Chamber of Commerce.

The growing popularity of the Y. W. C. A. throughout the country is exhibited in a letter recently received by the Chamber of Commerce and referred to the secretary of the Y. W. C. A. organization in this city. The letter states that several unmarried women are on their way to California and wish to stop over here for a short time. In order to be cared for they wish accommodations at the rooms of the Y. W. C. A. and the recipient is requested to forward the letter to the proper authorities.

Unfortunately for the coming party of visitors it is said, the quarters of the Y. W. C. A. here are inadequate to provide for the visitors. Officials of the association call attention to this situation and the need of the people here rallying to the support of the organization.

Important Argument.
The argument in the injunction suit against the plumbers will be heard today. The title of the case is the Rex Plumbing Company against Local Union No. 16. Testimony was taken some time ago. The plaintiff seeks to enjoin the striking plumbers from interfering with its efforts to work with nonunion men.

Mines Are Tied Up.
According to John P. Cowan, a prominent mining man in this city, who returned Tuesday from a trip to Butte, Mont., the switchmen's strike has tied up two-thirds of the mines in Montana depending on the Union Pacific railroad. Some of the smelters are now closing down, and the situation begins to look serious.

FIND SHORT WEIGHT BUTTER ON MARKET

Food Commissioner Willard
Hansen Will Confiscate the "Gold Nugget" Brand.

SOME FIGURES AS TO PROFITS OF THE "HABIT"

Butchers Are Wondering Why
Some Cases Are Not Brought to Trial.

State Dairy and Food Commissioner Willard Hansen and his deputy, Heber C. Smith, in making an investigation of the grocery stores of the city Tuesday as to the purity of the foods on sale and other requirements under the law, discovered that there is considerable short weight butter on the market.

At one store they purchased what purported to be a pound of "Gold Nugget" butter, hearing the name "Nelson and Hicks." The butter outside it was stamped 16 ounces. The pot of butter itself was marked 15½ ounces, but when put on the scales by the commissioner it weighed only 14½ ounces, or 1½ ounces short of the legal weight, and that much at variance with the weight advertised on the outside label.

Immediately upon the discovery of this discrepancy, Commissioner Hansen and his deputy, Heber C. Smith, made a round of all the stores, and every pound of the "Nelson and Hicks" butter found will be confiscated.

Some Interesting Figures.

A little arithmetic in this connection will give the public an instructive illustration of the seriousness of the short weight "habit." If 11,000 pounds of this butter, 1½ ounces short, was disposed of per day, this would make a total shortage of 1,500 ounces, or ninety-four pounds. Ninety-four pounds at 40 cents per pound would net $37.50 per day, a sum out of which the public would be cheated. The small, but it is in the aggregate that it counts, as in the sugar frauds.

While making their investigations the commissioners also found in some of the stores extremely improperly labeled, and this defect must be remedied.

Some six months ago a number of butchers were arrested for using the preservative "Freemant" in their hamburger steaks. Some pleaded guilty and paid the penalty, but others decided to fight the case. So far they have not been called upon to fight, as the cases have not come to trial, and those who were indicted are asking why "the law's delay?"

HORSES DRAWING HEAVY WAGONS MUST BE SHOD

City Humane Officer Takes Action in Line With Humane Society.

A. S. Kendall, the city humane officer, is determined that horses that are compelled to draw heavy loads shall be properly shod. In following out this determination, Officer Kendall has halted a number of coal wagons in the street, compelled the drivers to unhitch their horses and take them to the nearest farrier's shop for the replacement of their shoes.

Mr. Kendall says the horses that draw these heavy loads are taxed to the utmost of their capacity to pull, and to pervert their natural strength to the pulling of a load is the extreme of inhumanity. The condition has been materially aggravated recently by the presence of snow and ice.

BLIND YOUNG WOMAN IS EXPERT DOLL DRESSER

Unique in every respect will be the exhibition of the large, dressed doll at the reception to be held in honor of the blind at the Kenyon hotel Friday night. The dressing and adornment of the doll is the work of Miss Marie Hansen, a blind young woman, who resides at 240 East South street.

Miss Hansen has been blind since childhood but she has become an expert in fancy and other kinds of work. The doll is garbed in a handsome gown, made and designed by Miss Hansen. She selected the colors to match the brown hair, and deftly pieced the dress together. She crocheted a pretty hat for the doll, working on it mostly at night, Miss Hansen says, when the cars stopped and the din of traffic ceased, "so that she could see better when there was not so much noise."

Miss Hansen worked for two weeks dressing the doll, tying the bows and doing all the sewing herself.

TWO MASKED MEN HOLD UP SALOON

C. A. Birch's Place at Twelfth
South and West Temple
Touched for $27.

R. W. HEAD ARRESTED BY SHERIFF'S OFFICERS

Saloonkeeper Sees Man at Jail,
but Does Not Positively Identify Him.

Wearing white silk handkerchiefs over their faces for masks, two highwaymen held up the saloon at Twelfth South and West Temple Tuesday night at 9:30 o'clock and escaped with $27.

Descriptions were furnished to the police and the sheriff's office. R. W. Head was arrested thirty minutes later on the Murray car by Deputy Sheriff Booth and Johnson and taken to the county jail, where he is being held pending an investigation. He had been holding evidence on his person when taken.

Birth's Story.
"With two neighbors, Mr. Swartz and Mr. Shaffer, I was sitting in the saloon on the bench facing the wall. We were talking about the ordinary events of the day. I suddenly turned around and looked into the end of a gun. It was being held by a tall man dressed in a light suit of clothing and wearing a white mask over his face. He told me to back up against the wall and to hold up my hands."

"None of us lost any time in complying with his request, and while he covered us with the gun his partner, who was about as tall as I was, came over and jumped over the bar and took the money out of the drawer. Both men then went out of the door and the last I saw of them was as they drove down West Temple street toward the city."

Sheriff Sharp was immediately notified and sent out a number of deputies, who were scattered along the street from Fifth South to the city. All suspicious-looking characters were stopped and made to give an account of themselves. While watching the car leave, Deputy Sheriff Booth and Johnson located a Murray car and placed it under arrest.

Answers Description.
Head answered the description given of one of the men, and when taken to the county jail he could give no satisfactory explanation of his whereabouts since the report of the robbery had been made. He was wearing a white silk handkerchief over his face, and a white silk handkerchief was found in his pockets. He also had a .38-caliber gun.

Inspector McKee detained Snowden at Brigham City and communicated with the United States authorities here. A warrant was secured, charging Snowden with being a fugitive from justice, and with this in his possession Deputy Smith made the arrest Monday.

Snowden was brought to Salt Lake and placed in the county jail. His $2000 bail has been forfeited. Wednesday he will be before U. S. Commissioner Baldwin on the question of his identity, which he admits, and the matter of again fixing bail, which Snowden also admits he cannot furnish. Should this turn out to be the case he will be held until he can give satisfactory evidence for trial.

HOWELL SNOWDEN'S RACE FOR JUSTICE

Denver Postoffice Superintendent
Jumps Bond and Flees
Westward.

CAUGHT BY INSPECTOR AT BRIGHAM CITY

Man Is Charged With Extracting Money From United States Mail.

Howell Snowden, formerly superintendent of the special delivery in the Denver postoffice and under indictment for robbing the United States mail, who has been making wild dashes from one city to another in a vain attempt to elude the postoffice inspectors, was arrested at Brigham City by Deputy United States Marshal Smyth, Monday, and now rests easily in the county jail.

To escape capture Snowden even went the extreme length of making an attempt on his own liberty by inflicting slight wounds on his throat and wrist, but he did himself no serious injury.

For a long time the inspectors at the Denver postoffice suspected that Snowden was tampering with the mail. To confirm these suspicions a check letter was framed, containing $19 in marked bills. Snowden fell a victim to the trap. He opened the letter, appropriated the money and was found with the marked currency on his person.

Indicted by Grand Jury.

In May of this year he was indicted by the grand jury. His bail was fixed at $1000, and a Denver man, who was supposed to be wealthy, was accepted as his bondsman. When an opportunity presented itself Snowden decamped from the "Queen City of the West," and headed for the Pacific coast. Postoffice inspectors have been looking for him on his trail and after tracking him from place to place, landed his man at Brigham City last Saturday night.

It was when he saw capture was inevitable that Snowden made the unsuccessful attempt of his life.

Bondsman Is Worthless.

Prior to Snowden's flight, however, it was found that his bondsman was worthless, with the result that he is indicted for perjury. Snowden, was, of course, re-arrested,
